French government awards local veteran

Journalist
Western Review

Drayton Valley resident Ira Haight was awarded a Legion of Honour medal on Oct. 8 at the Alberta Legislature in Edmonton.

The Legion of Honour or Legion d'Honneur "is the highest decoration that France can bestow and, as such, is equivalent to the Order of Canada." The medals were presented to four Canadian veterans, including Haight, who participated in D-Day and the Battle of Narmandy operations. The French government also celebrated the 70th anniversary of D-Day landings on that day.

The 92-year-old veteran said he is grateful for receiving the award.

"It's good to be recognized by the French government," Haight said. "I joined the army because it was difficult to find a job back then."

"Back in those days, there is nothing much else to do. It was pretty hard times back when the war broke out," he said. "So when everybody else joins, you join, too. It was very hard. You could not get a job."

When asked what his most unforgettable memory of the war was, Haight said, "When you are 18 or 19 years old, nothing but what they had before."

After the war, Haight, who was originally from Bruce, Alberta, moved and built a life in Drayton Valley.

"When I got out of the army, I met my wife in Calgary and she is from this country," he said. "When we got married, we moved out here and stayed here ever since."

A token of Dutch Canadian friendship

MARILYN LUDWIG
Western Review

Drayton Valley is one of the 140 communities to receive 70th anniversary Dutch-Canadian Friendship Tulip Gardens.

These gardens are being distributed across Canada in celebration of the first gift of 100,000 Dutch tulip bulbs sent to Canadians in 1945, as a symbol of appreciation for the role Canadian soldiers played in the liberation of the Netherlands.

The gardens are also a symbol of hospitality that Canada provided to the Dutch Royal Family in Ottawa during the Second World War.

Princess Juliana gave birth to her daughter Margriet in Ottawa at the Civic Hospital and since then Canada and the Netherlands have had a friendship because Canada was a safe harbour to the Dutch Royal Family during the Second World War, said Danette Meule sustainability coordinator with the Town of Drayton Valley.

She submitted the application to win the Friendship Tulip Garden on behalf of the Communities in Bloom committee of which she is also a member.

She added that the town is inviting members from the community to help with the planting of the garden and learn more about the history.

The garden consists of 700 red and white tulip bulbs.

"We feel very fortunate to have received one of these gardens as we understand that the Canadian Garden Council, the organization behind the Friendship Tulip Garden program, received more than 400 applications," said Mayor Glenn McClean in a release.

The planting ceremony is on Oct. 24 at 10:00 a.m. at the south end of the town where 50 St. meets Hwy. 22,

Facebook and Twitter make it easier than ever for users to misinform each other

The lives of most Canadians revolve around social media. Especially Facebook. Some 14 million of us check our newsfeeds daily (19 million at least once a month). Those numbers put us above both the global and U.S. average when it comes to Facebook usage.

So it's no surprise the current prolonged federal election has gotten plenty of play on social media, Facebook in particular. It has become the No. 1 virtual battleground where the parties, candidates and Joe and Jane Public wage a war to get their message out, attack opponents, sway public opinion and hopefully win votes.

On Facebook, the political meme has become the main tool this campaign. Half the time, folks are posting memes that (insert asterisk here) extol the virtues and wise policy objectives of their favourite party.

The other half, it's memes that demonize the other guys, skewering party leaders (insert asterisk here) for their stances on issues, their platforms, past record -- and occasionally their hair.

People see these memes in their newsfeeds and if they agree with them, laugh at them or are even angered by them, often share to their timelines. Then so it goes, so-on and so-on, down the line. And therein lies the rub. Is the info in that meme true? Did you fact check it before taking it as the truth and passing it along?

Many memes contain outright falsehoods and lies, yet it becomes fact in the minds of many once they read it. Facebook isn't alone, as Twitter can also be a bastion of misinformation during this campaign. Agree with something you see, true or not, retweet it. Then so it goes, again, down the line.

The sad part in all this is the Internet makes it easier than ever before in history to be informed during an election. Parties list their platforms on their web-sites and it's easy to find additional reputable information on policy and candidates if you take the time to look.

All the information is there for you to make an informed decision based on what it is important to you. However, at the end of the day, it's still your responsibility to weed out fact from fiction and do your due diligence to be educated on where to place your X on the ballot.

In this new age of social media, the age-old adage 'don't believe everything you read' rings more true now than ever.

With that being said, even if the parties go, and I am not

An unexpected apology

Last week, I got up at the middle of the night to use the washroom, when I got back on my bed, I checked my phone and saw I got a message from a friend I haven't heard from for months. I was half-awake when I was reading his message but halfway through, I found myself crying.

My friend's message was simple and straight to the point. I felt that it truly came from his heart. He basically apologized and admitted what he had done wrong. I was not expecting it at all which is probably why my eyes welled up with tears.

The thing is, I have forgiven him even before I got his apology. Although, I never really told him that I have forgiven him because we have not talked since he left. Yes, a few months ago, I was hurting and it took time to get where I am now. But I have realized that in life, we have to learn to forgive people with or without an apology.

He said I deserved an apology and I made me think, do I have anyone in my life right peace with myself and that I am no longer hurt seeing his name or photos pop up on my Facebook newsfeed even before he apologized. I really did appreciate him making the effort to write to me. His apology really caught me off guard. I would have been fine even without it and I would have still considered him a friend. But at that moment, I knew that he is a truly genuine friend and a noble person and I am really grateful that we are back in good terms.

Justine's Journey

Now that I have hurt in some way and have not asked for forgiveness? Sometimes, we think it is useless to say sorry to a person because we think it is too late. But what I have learned from this is that, saying sorry is never too late. Just as it is never too late to do it when you are ready. Do not say it for the sake of saying it or else the other person will only feel that you said it half-heartedly. Say it when you mean it.

Maybe that person has already forgiven us or already know what we have to say, but hearing it come from us can really make that person's day. It does not matter how long it takes (30 days, weeks, months, or years down the road, but if you only muster up the courage to say what you need to say, I think the person will really appreciate the effort just as you would appreciate it when someone comes up to you one day and say something you were never expecting.

Local students attend Canadian Student Leadership Conference

Arline Kinnison
Western Review

Two Grade 9 students from HW Pickup Junior High School attended the Canadian Student Leadership Conference (CSLC) held from Sept. 22 to Sept. 27 in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

"The CSLC is a Canadian conference that allows students and advisors the opportunity to engage in leadership activities with others from across Canada," said HW Pickup Junior High School teacher advisor Shannon Gallant. "Through out the week, conference students attend key note speakers, workshops, group sessions, and are a part of spirit from across the country."

The HW Pickup students were Kyla Malcolm and Alyssa Barkley.

"They are enrolled in a year-long leadership option at HW Pickup and attended CSLC because they demonstrate a high level of leadership within their school, community, and through global projects. The students were chosen based on the level of leadership they exhibit within our school and community," Gallant said. "Both students attended the provincial conference in May 2014 in Olds, Alberta prior to attending the CSLC in Halifax."

Gallant said the conference was a chance for students to learn more about leadership.

"This conference is an amazing opportunity to bring students from across the country together to explore ideas and have a voice about leadership and how they can be a part of the positive change for Canada's youth," she said. "It empowers them to be involved in making those changes and how they can assist others in this movement."

In addition, Gallant said she is proud of the two students who attended the conference.

"Such an amazing experience and from a teacher's view, we have a lot of great students that exhibit leadership characteristics within HW Pickup and these two students are among them," she said. "They attended this conference because of their role in leadership but exceeded my expectations on how engaging, involved, and open to new ideas they were."

Malcolm said she had a great time meeting other students who are as passionate towards leadership as she was.

"It was great to be with other students who have the same passion towards leadership and want to be a part of the positive things that are going on," she said.

As for Barkley, she said it was a chance to make new friends.

"The conference gave us an opportunity to make new friends, share ideas about leadership, and how we can improve for our school and community," Barkley said.

After the conference, the two students went straight to work and applied what they have learned from the conference to their own school.

"The students have already been in full swing upon arriving back. They organized We Share Hunger which is a Free the Children idea to raise non-perishable food," Gallant said. "Our campaign began on Oct. 6 and runs for a month to raise food items for the Drayton Valley Food Bank. The campaign consists of classroom challenges within HW Pickup to obtain points based on food items brought. The winning class will get spirit points added to their class which could result in a pizza feed at the end of the term."

Gallant said she is grateful to the Wild Rose School Division (WRSD) for sending the students to experience CSLC this year.

"This was the first year our school and any WRSD school attended the CSLC," Gallant said. "We thank WRSD for providing us with this amazing opportunity to attend and look forward to attending next year in New Brunswick."

Kyla Malcolm and Alyssa Barkley, Grade 9 students from HW Pickup Junior High School, attended the Canadian Student Leadership Conference in Halifax, Nova Scotia from Sept. 22 to Sept. 27.

Restructuring the way councils meet

By Michelle Latta
Western Review

Brazeau County, Town of Drayton Valley and Village of Breton discussed how they could restructure the joint council meetings at a recent joint council meeting.

Mayor Glenn McLean said in order to make the meetings more efficient, the meetings should allow for the decision making process which the current format doesn't.

At present, the three municipalities meet and have a discussion and later make those decisions in their respective council chambers.

"It would bring conclusions to matters and provide very clear direction to our respective administration. Not on every item will we reach conclusion. Things can still be tabled.

But this was in an effort to make these meetings more fruitful," said McLean.

Some other town councillors agreed with McLean's idea of having a meeting where decisions can be made.

"I think for myself the real concern is we call this the joint council meeting. Council meetings are made but true decisions are not made here. We withdraw to our own separate council chambers for decisions."

Debra Bassen said town council meetings will continue in the same way, the same should be changed.

County Council Anthony Heinrich did not agree with making decisions at joint council meetings.

"We are not elected to be sitting at the tables and collectively making decisions. We were elected by each and our own entity of ratepayers. We are accountable to our own set of ratepayers. It's good that we can come together like this to discuss, however the decisions are not to be made here," said Heinrich.

Deputy Reeve Marc Griesler said Brazeau County could specifically meet Village of Breton and Town of Drayton Valley separately to discuss respective issues. Village of Breton Deputy Mayor Janet Young agreed with the suggestion.

A Breton councillor said a decision making meeting would not be helpful for Breton.

"I think it's more to do with a collaborative style meeting than a voting style meeting. Because I think we need time to digest things," she said.

- The previous Minister of Health for the province of Alberta committed $300,000.00 to the campaign with consideration for further funding for renovation purposes. The new Minister of Health will not honor this commitment.
- Hospital renovation and construction of a room for the CT Scanner will start in January 2018.
- The Drayton Valley Hospital currently has 2 Medical Radiation Technologists on staff to operate the CT Scanner. Staff members are scheduled to train in January on the specific Scanner that we will purchase.
- The Drayton Valley Health Services Foundation has paid a deposit on the CT Scanner to hold a firm price until such time as we have raised sufficient funds to cover the entire cost.
- The Foundation has an agreement with the supplier that should a more advanced Scanner come on the market prior to our purchase, the deposit will be applied against the updated equipment.
- The Health Services Foundation continues to raise funds for this essential medical equipment.

Board members needed for two committees

Justine Kimoden
Western Review

Board member positions have opened up for various local committees and groups that cover health and social, arts and culture, governance, sustainability from an economic development point and a natural and built environment.

Jaynell Wheeler, chair for the Sustainability Committee for the town, said volunteers are needed for the Subdivision and Development Appeal Board and Pembina Physician Recruitment and Retention Committee Board for the Town of Drayton Valley. Volunteer board members can choose from a variety of tasks which includes doing recruitment tours, advertising, and organizing events.

Wheeler also explained the difference between the responsibilities of a Physician Recruitment and Retention Committee board member from the Subdivision and Development Appeal board member.

"The physician recruitment retention board member will manage a website, report back to the town and county, and keep in contact with Alberta Health Services," Wheeler said. "As for the Subdivision and Development Appeal Board, what it is is that once council makes a decision on something, if it comes forward to council and they get denied, then they have the right to appeal it and that goes to a subdivision appeal board. In my two years that I have been in council, they have never actually had an appeal so if you are looking for a board that does not need a lot, that is the board."

Anyone interested will start off as general board member until they find a niche they want to focus on.

"But, I tend to be a rotating thing. People come and people go. We are looking for eventually people find their strength within the board," Wheeler said. "We have had some people that joined and they really want to focus on the recruitment aspect or really want to focus on when we do our appreciation events and organizing events like that."

Time commitment depends on the availability and schedule of a potential volunteer or board member.

"It is an easy way to give back to the community and it does not really take much time. People always ask 'What's the commitment level or I do not want to get drawn in and spend hours and hours' but most boards that you volunteer on, you tend to set your own hours in terms of what you are available to do so they kind of work around you," said Wheeler.

Experience is not a requirement for becoming a board member, according to Wheeler. "The best people to join the board are the ones with no experience because they have come with a fresh perspective and new ideas and can give an outsider's opinion of what we are doing and whether or not we are communicating properly," she said.

Board member positions are also open to youth.

"Our goal is to have 50 per cent of all the boards in Drayton Valley to have a youth representative so that is something that we are going to start looking out to them as a new topic is to really try to put a youth position on any board that exists in town right now and to try to recruit a youth member," said Wheeler.

Community members are encouraged to consider applying for a board member position by visiting www.draytonvalley.ca and clicking on Employment Opportunities.

"I think being on a board is a unique experience because in the end, it is like being on a team. You are all there with a common goal and a purpose and you get to work together towards it," she said. "Typically, when you are on a board, you set your goal and they are fairly achievable and so you always feel like you are making progress and doing something. I think it is a way to give back even to yourself because it makes you feel like you are making progress and doing things and making a better community, a stronger community by giving something that you can give. Some people can donate money, others cannot. Some people can donate time, others cannot. Whatever you can give still helps in the end."

Volunteering one's time is also a great gift to family and friends for Christmas as suggested by Wheeler.

"We had friends who did that as a Christmas gift. They wrote a card and just said we volunteered for four hours at the food bank in honour of you guys and your family for Christmas and I thought 'What a neat way again to give to someone who you know do not really need anything but they all appreciate the gift of giving in general'," she said. "Christmas is 66 days away and it would be an option for people to give."

Haunted house opens on Oct. 24

Justine Kimodan
Western Review

The Drayton Valley Family and Community Support Services (FCSS) together with River Valley Players (RVP) are putting on Dragonvale Castle: A Halloween Haunted House on Oct. 24 at the Mackenzie Conference Centre.

Anyone interested in spooky-themed activities are invited to explore the haunted house just in time for Halloween.

"They are going to travel back in time and visit a medieval village and castle," said RVP volunteer Pat Kishbauch. "We are basically building all kinds of interesting sets. We will have log cottages and we will have a castle and people in costumes. We will have all types of magical creatures that are going to be haunting this village and castle. There are also rumours of a possible dragon in there."

There are two tours scheduled. The first one is at 1 p.m. for children aged 10 years old and below and the second one is at 7 p.m. for anyone aged 10 years old and up.

"(The 'first one') is more of an adventure and a little bit of scare in it as they go through," Kishbauch said. "(The second one) is for the older people who are there to get scared."

This free event is sponsored by the town's FCSS but food bank donations are encouraged.

"Actually, there are no tickets. It is free. We do ask for people if they can bring a food donation for the food bank," Kishbauch said. "This is being operated by FCSS and they are having a nice and beautiful Games and Community Information Resource Fair just outside of the haunted house. It is an opportunity to find out the services provided by FCSS so it is something to do while waiting to get into the haunted house."

For more information, contact Drayton Valley FCSS at (780)514-2206.

DVHSF holds cellphone collection campaign

By: [Name]

Unwanted cellphones, laptops, iPods, and digital cameras can now be recycled to help with Drayton Valley Health Services Foundation (DVHSF) fund raising efforts through the foundation's Cellphone Collection Campaign.

The DVHSF has been doing this for a number of years now. I think it has been eight or nine years that we have been doing this," said DVHSF Fund Development Officer Colleen Sekura. "We have collection bins for cellphones at G + West Wireless and at Dunn Wright Communications. So when you are buying a new cellphone, you can leave your old one there - and those cellphones come to us and we recycle those and our recycler pays us.

Each electronic item costs a different amount but is still a great help to the foundation.

"Depending on which phone it is, if it is an iPhone or an old flip phone, they are priced out by the recycler," said Sekura. "We take cellphones, laptops, computers, and digital cameras. We packaged them up and send them up for the recycler. People can drop them off at the Drayton Valley hospital or at one of those two locations so they can just cut us and we will come pick them up if they have a bag full of them."

Sekura encourages the community to support the Cellphone Collection Campaign as it is not only a great way to help DVHSF with its fund raising efforts but it also benefits the environment.

"It is a good fund raiser for the foundation that we can put some extra dollars to our fund raising efforts," she said. "And you know it keeps those cellphones and all of those electronics away from our landfills up with electronics."

For more information, contact DVHSF at (780) 921-1914.

Four reasons why school libraries matter

News Canada

(NC) School libraries play a major role in children's academic success by providing the tools to learn. For some kids, the library can be the first place they discover a love of reading.

Nearly 90 per cent of Canadian agree that school libraries are important to children's learning and development. However, most high-needs elementary schools do not have the necessary funds to provide students with adequate access to books.

In fact, the average cost of a book is 15 cents and for some, an average lack of understanding has left book libraries badly depleted. It's not their fault as a point of view, more so, many kids and learning materials. Some people in libraries find these opportunities, kids are less inspired to read.

Organizations like the Indigo Love of Reading Foundation work to address the underfunding of school libraries and provide children's literacy. The foundation's annual Adopt a School program connects Canadian schools with Indigo stores in their communities to raise funds, which helps transform libraries with new books and educational resources.

Why School Libraries Matter

1. Access to Books: Kids growing up in low-income areas often don't have access to books. Starting with books at home, a library can play a big role in providing children with the opportunity to read.

2. Reading Sparks Imagination: Exposure to books and reading programs at school gives kids more opportunities to use their imagination.

3. Not Everything is Available Online: With so much information available online, it's easy to forget the value of real physical books. Not everything exists in a digital format and school libraries have key resources that cannot be found on the Internet.

4. Breaking Language Barriers: Canadian school libraries often have access to dual-language books, which can help a child's literacy when English is their second language.

To support an elementary school in your area through the Indigo Adopt a School program, visit your local Indigo store or go online to www.indigo.com.

Five grooming basics all men should know

(NC) In the past, the art of groom and facial hair was generally passed down from father to son. For better or for worse, grooming lessons were at the mercy of how skilled, or unskilled, dad was with the shaver. With the proliferation of social media, however, gone are the days when you could only learn about hair maintenance at dad's elbow. Trend setters and grooming gurus on YouTube provide tips and tricks to viewers and shed light on grooming tips both new and old.

Jason Cullala of Original Grooming Experts in Toronto, is just one of the many experts who have taken about a decade to perfect their craft. He says, "In a lot of ways, this is a new generation of grooming. It's not just about looking good, it's about feeling good. It's about taking care of your skin and your hair, and making sure you look like the best version of yourself."

1. Wash your face: It's often the first step in a grooming routine. Some men may skip this step, but it's important. Washing your face helps to remove dirt, oil, and sweat from your skin, which can help prevent breakouts and keep your skin healthy.

2. Invest in quality tools: Good tools, including shavers, scissors, combs, and hair products, will ensure you get great results. Cullala says he relies on Philips' wide range of shavers and groomers for face, body and head, all of which keep men looking fresh from head to toe.

3. When trying to achieve fuller looks like beards, mustaches or goatees, be patient and know that you have to commit to a certain growth period. A bit of general maintenance around the edges can help keep things tidy during the in-between stage and reduce unruly hairs.

4. Don't ignore the hair on your body. This grooming is just as important as the style you sport on your face. Look for shavers that come with additional attachments to take care of everything from the neck to the legs.

5. Become your barber's best friend. Establishing a relationship with your barber will help you get a haircut on a regular basis and maintenance. Get your barber to start you off with a style or shape you can easily maintain at home and ask for tips on how to do it.

Five grooming

basics all men should know

News Canada

(NC) In the past, the art of grooming facial hair was generally passed down from father to son. For better or for worse, grooming lessons were at the mercy of how skilled - or unskilled - dad was with the shaver. With the proliferation of social media, however, gone are the days when you could only learn about hair maintenance from your dad.

And grooming experts are able to provide tips and tricks to viewers, and shed light on grooming tips - both for men and women.

Jason Cudala of Original Grooming, a sports and fitness instructor, is one of the many experts who have shared about this topic. "It is a fair belief, but not a good one, that a good haircut is enough to take care of your hair," he says. "In the hair business, the best place to start is with the hair."

Here are Cudala's five top tips:
1. All facial hair is different. Some men have sparse hair, some fuller. While others are fine and straight and others thick and curly, the key to grooming is to understand your own needs and find a style that works best with what nature gave you.

2. Invest in quality tools. Good tools, including shavers, scissors, combs and hair products, will ensure you get great results. Cudala says he relies on Philips' wide range of shavers and groomers for face, body and head, all of which keep men looking fresh from head to toe.

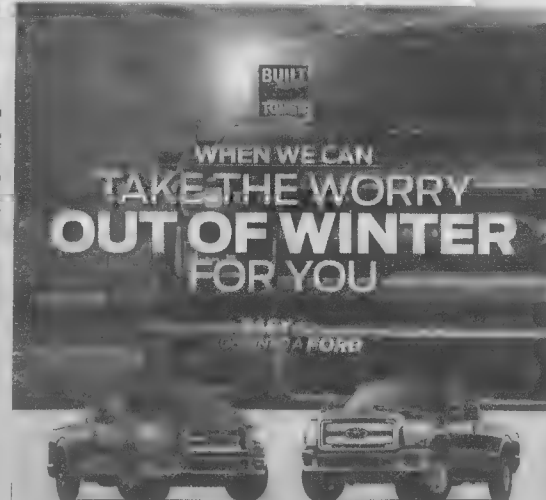

3. When trying to achieve fuller looks like beards, mustaches or goatees, be patient and know that you have to commit to a certain growth period. A bit of general maintenance around the edges can help keep things tidy during the in-between stage and reduce unruly hairs.

4. Don't ignore the hair on your body. This grooming is just as important as the style you sport on your face. Look for shavers that come with additional attachments to take care of down there hair like the industry popular Philips MultiGroom 7000.
5. Because your barber's best friend, Talia, is a girl, to stay on top with your barber will help you get guidance on at-home style and maintenance. Get your barber to start you off with a style or shape you can easily maintain at home and ask for tips on how to do it well.

School Notebook

This week classes 3B and 3R will begin their swimming lessons. Remember to pack swimsuits and towels.

The Walking Running Club meets this Wednesday at lunch. This week it is for Division 1 (grades 1-3). Weather permitting students will do laps around Mouth vein Pond and if weather is bad, in the gym.

Thursday is Fire Safety Day for grade 1 with the fire department coming to their classrooms to talk about smoke alarms and the term "Get out and stay out."

Children's entertainer and junior Award winner, Norman Foote is coming to Aurora on Wednesday, October 28th for a "Halloween Howl" concert. The Aurora choir will be involved. The evening is open to the general public. Cost is $10 (at the door) with doors open at 6:30 pm.

The grade 4s had an educational experience visiting the Aspen Waste Management site in Drayton Valley as part of their environmental unit. They got to see where their trash is sent, sorted, and buried.

Thank you to all the parents and teachers who met over Monday and Tuesday to discuss their children's academic and social progress to date this year. We have found that meeting earlier in the year rather than at first report card time is more effective in addressing student needs. Of course, if you missed a meeting, you can book one anytime the teacher is available.

The Aurora Learning Expedition is up and running. Every student should have a "Brainiac Bingo Card" at home with 10 squares on it. Each grid space represents 15 mins of brainwork for K-2, and 10 minutes for Grade 3-6. You can only mark off one box per day. Time comes for reading, practicing math, doing home work and other academic learning. Once all 30 squares are filled and parents sign off on it, students bring it in to exchange for "Brainiac Bucks" each buck worth 10 house league points.

There is no school this Friday as teachers have a professional learning day.

The Hot Lunch Program is now underway. Please have all lunches for the week ordered online before Sunday 9 p.m. at www.auroracdschools.ca (click the documents tab for instructions on registering your name). There are no longer lunch tickets available for purchase at the office. There is an emergency plan in place for children who are stranded without a lunch.

ENTWISLE

The year is under way and there were many great things that happened in the month of September at Entwistle School. Here are a few of last month's highlights.

We held our annual Cross Country Run on the Sept. 17. Approximately 200 students from across the county took part in this year's run! In addition, Entwistle Eagles have done extremely well at all of the runs and several students will be adding their name to the Cross Country honor in the gymnasium this year. Way to ### show your PRIDE Eagles!

For the first time in several years, there will be both a boys and girls volleyball team. We are all very excited to see them take the court and are looking forward to their home opener on Oct. 13. Come on out and cheer on the Eagles!

We had another great Open House and would like to thank all of the volunteers for helping out. In addition, the Entwistle Learning Society held their elections on the 21st. Come on out on Oct. 19 to meet the new executive. A huge thank you to last year's ESC & FOELS members who continued the great work in helping ensure that "Our students get our best".

On Sept. 29 our school participated in our annual Terry Fox Run. Students could be seen running through town wearing their Terry Fox stickers acknowledging that Terry Fox ran for them and that they in turn were running for someone who was dear to them.

October will be another great month at Entwistle School. Here are some exciting things to look forward to.

With the gymnasium floor now finished physical education will resume in the gym. This also means that the physical education equipment stored in the Learning Commons will return to its rightful place. In turn, the Learning Commons will once again be a space that students can use.

Archery will be starting up soon. Please pay close attention to morning announcements. This year students grades one through nine can participate. We are expecting in excess of 50 students looking to participate. Students have to use Genesis bows (which are provided at the school). Students who have their own Genesis bow may bring it to school. Only approved NASP equipment is permitted. Also, the teachers and volunteers coaching this team have NASP certification. As such, they are aware of the rules and regulations of the archery in school program and outside coaching is not permitted.

We are pleased to have presentations in the school this month. On the 7th ATCO is making a presentation to students in grades 1-6 at 2 p.m. On the 14th author Tyler Enfield will be presenting to the entire student body from 1-2 p.m. Parents and community members are welcomed to come and join.

On Oct. 15 students in Kindergarten to Grade 3 will be visiting Fort Edmonton Park for the day.

Now let me please introduce you to another member of the staff here at Entwistle School, our Wellness Coach Miss Angela Telford.

Hello! I hope everyone had a great summer. I am looking forward to starting the school year and reconnecting with those of you I know from last year, and getting to know those of you that are new to me.

I am excited about the focus on wellness throughout Parkland School Division year. I hope to be a positive addition to your school and community. I will continue with individual and small group counselling this upcoming year (including play therapy) and would like to implement more wellness-based programs if possible.

ple are interested (Zones of Regulation, Rainbows program, social skills building, etc.) Also, I am always open to collaboration with schools and multi-disciplinary teams. If there is anything you would like to see happening at your school from a counselling/wellness perspective, let me know and I can start to help to facilitate it, or brainstorm with you.

I am looking forward to getting to know you all, please don't hesitate to contact me with any questions or concerns.

Angela Telford, R. Psych (Provisional), M. Ed. H. D. Wellness Coach

Parkland School Division #70 Entwistle PRIDE. All Entwistle School students are members of the Entwistle Eagles. Entwistle Eagles display the virtues of PRIDE in their endeavors and are ambassadors for Entwistle School and Parkland School Division as they pursue their goals. The culture at Entwistle School is reflected in the virtues of our PRIDE acronym: Purposefulness, Resilience, Independence, Dignity, and Empathy. For the month of October our focus is on Resilience.

R - Resilience: Being resilient means you face life's difficulties with courage and patience. You refuse to give up. When you are resilient you are able to become stronger, healthy, or successful again after something difficult happens.

Members of the Entwistle School community value these virtues as positive contributing factors to inclusion, citizenship, social responsibility, and wellness. The Eagle is the symbol for PRIDE.

Celebrations of Learning (previously known as Parent/Teacher Interview) will take place at the school Wednesday, Oct. 21 and Thursday, Oct. 22 from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Celebrations of Learning for students in Kindergarten through Grade 3 will take place in classrooms and can be booked by calling the office starting Monday, Oct. 12. Celebrations of Learning for students in Grades 4 through 9 will take place in the gymnasium, and do not require an appointment time. As Ms. Williams, Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Carson teach several students, times will be limited to 10 minutes. If additional time is needed it can be scheduled for a future date as required.

If you should ever have any questions, comments, celebrations or concerns, please feel free to email (worthington@pd70.ab.ca) or call me (780-727-3811) at any time.

Storage Wars – Hibernating your outdoor tools for the season

News Canada

As the weather cools and homeowners begin to hibernate their tools, it's important to take care of your equipment from the summer. It's common for tools to get piled haphazardly and forgotten about until the following season.

If stored this way, when it's time to start the engines the following season homeowners may find their tools in permanent hibernation. The best tool maintenance requires a little service before storage, not after.

"It's not uncommon for people to forget to service their tools," says Michelle Nord, director of marketing at Husqvarna Canada, a leader in outdoor power products. "Spending some time preparing your tools for storage is an important step towards ensuring power tools will operate effectively the following season."

These tips from the pros will ensure a hassle-free start next year:

• Fresh and clean: The most important step is to clean the tool before storage. Cut grass is very corrosive, so it is important to clean gardening tools and mowers, especially before storage. For mowers with a water hose connector, allowing for easy cleaning of the cutting deck.

• Drain the fuel: Gasoline left in fuel tanks over the winter will break down, leaving deposits and build-up that will plug the fuel system. Before you pack power equipment away, make sure you drain any leftover fuel.

• To tune: For the best performance results and a longer life for your tools, give them the deluxe service treatment by taking them to a skilled dealer (like Husqvarna) for an annual tune up.

• Oil it up: Use an oil cloth to wipe down metal areas and add a couple of drops of machine oil to moving parts.

• Cover up: Store your lawn equipment indoors, if possible. If it is left outside, protect your equipment in a tool shed or cover it with a tarp.

• Recharge the battery: Remember to fully recharge the machine's battery during the winter months.

• Soak the trimmer line: A professional trick is to remove your trimmer line and let it soak in fresh water to maintain its flexibility and ability to handle more strain.

Additional information, tips and local power tool dealer locations are available online at www.husqvarna.ca, www.newsCanada.com

CAUSE FOR CRITTERS PET OF THE WEEK: PETUNIA

Petunia says, "Give me a chance!" If you come to the shelter, you might not be able to find me. But I'll tell you a secret: I am probably hiding under the table. I never had any contact with humans until a lady caught me and brought me to the shelter. Even though it was scary, I am glad she did because I have a warm place to stay with lots to eat. But I am still really frightened by all the chaos around me. I just need somewhere quiet to live with someone who is very patient and trustworthy. I know, I wrote a paragraph that I could gather up my courage and have my sweet personality. I hope you can come and meet my siblings and I at the Cause for Critters animal shelter Bay #3-5450-55 St., www.causeforcritters.ca, or 780-998-7297. But please come in quietly and slowly when you do!

If you need any more information about any of these events, please call the office for more details.

Oct. 19 - Life Touch Photographers will be here to take school pictures in the morning (rescheduled from Oct. 6).

School photographs are scheduled for Monday, Oct. 19 first thing in the morning. Bring your biggest smiles for individual photos. This year Tomahawk School has employed the photography services of Lifetouch National School Studios. Students are reminded to not wear green clothing as it blends in with the green screen.

Oct. 20 - Learning Conferences (aka Parent-Teacher-Student Interviews) from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. - please call Mrs. Krugman to schedule an appointment.

Oct. 27 - Students in Grades 5 through have the opportunity to take part in WE Day in Calgary. Oct. 28 - School Assembly - Camouflage Dress up day at 10:00 a.m.

School photographs have been rescheduled for the morning of Monday, Oct. 19. Parents of Kindergarten students are encouraged to bring their children in to have their photographs taken. Bring your biggest smiles for individual photos. This year Tomahawk School has employed the photography services of Lifetouch National School Studios. We apologize for the inconvenience but due to an alternative date to accommodate all students was not available.

Scholastic Book Fair is coming to Tomahawk School! The Book Fair will be available Oct. 20 to 23. Here is the Book Fair schedule.

Tuesday, Oct. 20 - 9:30 to 1:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.
Wednesday, Oct. 21 at 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Thursday, Oct. 22 at 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.
Friday, Oct. 23 at noon to 12:50 p.m. The Book Fair will also be open Tuesday evening, Oct. 20 from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. during Learning Conferences. On Friday, Oct. 23, the Book Fair will only be open from noon to 12:50 p.m.

Make sure and stop by and check out the selection of new books! Our library will receive 60% per cent back in books if we reach required sales from the Book Fair. Please come and support our Book Fair!

Collecting all pictured! If you have any photos of family members serving in armed forces, peacekeeping, or military service of any kind, we'd like to scan your photos to include in our upcoming Remembrance Day ceremony. Please include names of individuals, dates, and location and relation to your family. All original pictures will be scanned and immediately returned. All pictures need to be into the office by November 6th to be included in the Remembrance Day Ceremony.

Tomahawk School has accepted the challenge from Millgrove School to help "WE POUND OUT HUNGER". The challenge is to collect one pound of food for every student in our school. That's about 130 pounds of food but our goal is 300 lbs. We are happy to announce that we surpassed our goal and collected close to 400 pounds of food items.

Also, the collection of food will continue to the end of October with WE SCARE HUNGER. Students may come to your door Halloween night asking for a donation of non-perishable goods. All food collected will support local recipients and the Drayton Valley Food Bank.

Students in Grades 5 through 9 have the opportunity to take part in WE Day, Tuesday, Oct. 27 at the Saddledome in Calgary. A variety of celebrity ambassadors will share their time, talents and passion to help inspire lives and transform communities. They will deliver empowering messages to motivate students to do in their own communities and the world. You can't buy a ticket to this event. You must earn it! Tomahawk School was fortunate enough to earn many tickets based on our involvement in local and global projects and reporting the results in the 2014/15 school year. Everyone in Grades 5 to 9 is encouraged to create a poster and sign up to be part of the day that will kick-start local and global change! Earn a ticket to a spectacular and empowering WE Day! The events itself is free but there is a fee of $40 per student to help pay for the cost of transportation. Check out WE Day at www.weday.com or contact Mrs. Nicholson at the school for further information. Friends of Tomahawk School Society is offering a Calahoo Movie fundraiser. Attached is the order form and product information. Please make cheques payable to Friends of Tomahawk School Society. The deadline for orders is Friday, Oct. 16. Sorry, but late orders will not be accepted. The orders are expected to arrive Thursday, Oct. 29. A notice will come out regarding pick up time two or three days prior to delivery date. You will need to pick up your order that morning, as it is largely frozen product, and we do not have the room to store in our freezers. Please contact Mrs. Brittany Tremblay at 780-514-5546 if you have any questions. Thank you for your support.

FortisAlberta to purchase VNM REA electricity system assets

VNM Rural Electrification Association (REA) members have voted to sell their electricity system assets to FortisAlberta. At a recent special general meeting, 97 per cent of members voted in favour to sell these assets. VNM REA is located in the Barrhead and Westlock County area northwest of Edmonton.

The sale, valued at $16.0 million, has been approved by the Alberta Utilities Commission (AUC), the agency responsible for the regulation of electricity distribution utilities in Alberta. VNM REA members, who collectively own the REA's assets, will receive more than $25,000 for each service. This sale follows the acquisition of Kriman REA by FortisAlberta, also recently approved by the AUC.

"Selling VNM REA's electricity system assets to FortisAlberta is the most appropriate course of action for our members," says Richard Hadley, President, VNM REA. "We are proud of our long history and what we have accomplished, however, times have changed and our membership understands the enormous complexity of running an REA. We are selling our assets to a trusted partner and a qualified and reliable electricity utility and this was overwhelmingly supported by our members."

FortisAlberta has a long-standing relationship with VNM REA and has partnered with them to operate their electricity distribution system for 65 years. "It has been a privilege to serve the VNM REA members since 1950 and work alongside the VNM REA Board of Directors throughout this process," says Phosne Delaney, President and CEO, FortisAlberta. "We appreciate the overwhelming show of support from VNM members and we look forward to continuing to provide safe and reliable electricity distribution service to them as customers of FortisAlberta."

Creating a financial bucket list to help achieve your goals

(NC) Most people have specific goals about where they want to go in life, but not all have their own, tailored financial plan to help them get there. Still, most financial experts will agree that if you have goals and dreams for yourself, you've already taken the most important first step toward building your personal financial plan to turn those dreams into reality.

"Helping people define their personal and financial goals is key to understanding what a financial plan is meant to do for each individual," says Lee Bennett, senior vice-president, TD Wealth Financial Planning. "Once a financial planner understands each person's dreams for the future, they can help develop an effective plan to turn those dreams into reality."

Goals can be either short term – such as taking a vacation, buying a big-ticket item or paying down debts such as student loans or credit cards – or long term, such as buying a home or putting money aside for retirement. Whatever your goals may be, start by putting each of them in order of importance and assigning a time frame. This will give you the basic foundation upon which to build your financial plan.

A good financial planner will work with you to help define what matters most in your life. Make sure you discuss more than just how much money you make and how much you spend each month. To really help you achieve your life goals, talk to your planner about how you measure success in your life and where you see yourself in 10 or 15 years.

Every financial plan should be reviewed on a regular basis, or whenever there is a major life change, to help ensure it's still working for you.

"Don't just set it and forget it," says Bennett. "Instead, make meeting with your financial planner a part of your regular financial routine. Not only can they review your progress to help ensure you're on track, but they can also evaluate any changes needed to your financial roadmap in order to help make your financial goal a reality."

Who's at Most Risk from Influenza? Five Reasons to Get Vaccinated

Many of us are at high risk

(N) each year, more than 12,000 Canadians are hospitalized, and 4,000 die due to influenza-related complications. Despite universal influenza (flu) vaccination programs on 35 to 40 per cent of adults get their annual flu shot.

While most adults with healthy immune systems can fight off the infection, five groups of people are at higher risk of influenza and its complications. Here are five reasons to get vaccinated this season:

1. Millions of Canadians are at high risk of influenza and its complications. Here are five reasons to get vaccinated this season:

2. Frequent Seniors: About 90 per cent of flu-related deaths occur in seniors because as people age, their immune systems weaken making them more prone to influenza-related complications.

3. Our Best Defense: Flu vaccinations decrease the frequency of pneumonia, hospitalization and death in seniors and people living with diabetes.

4. Newer Vaccines: This year, depend on the latest, more effective, quadrivalent (four strains) influenza vaccine. It protects against the four strains that are most likely to circulate in the coming season.

5. Contraindications: In your best defense against the flu, for you and those around you, get more information about the latest and best vaccine available in your province, speak to your doctor, pharmacist or local Public Health authority.

Utilize networking when looking for a job

I have been looking for a job for months now with no luck. I've applied for dozens of jobs and - in one interview - I've been told I haven't had a single interview. What am I doing wrong? Signed, Confused

Dear Confused

It's hard to say for sure why you are not getting any call backs. You might want to visit an Alberta Works Centre and talk to a Career and Employment Consultant about your job search. Your consultant can shed a little more light on what's happening with your job search and give you some advice. You can find the Alberta Works Centre nearest you by visiting humanresources.alberta.ca/offices.

Employers are a great source of wisdom when it comes to job search tips. I've attended a couple of employer job-search tips presentation and taken notes. This is not a complete list, but it seems like some job seekers are making the same mistakes over and over. You might find some of these tips helpful.

Know what the company does what positions they are trying to fill, and what skills your target job requires.

Try to talk to someone who works in the field or for the company to get a better understanding of the job you are applying for.

Do your own research. Recruiters don't want to find phone calls from your mum or your spouse - they want to talk to you. Your resume should make it clear what kind of position you are applying for.

Be sure your resume and cover letter are free of errors. Don't start with negatives in your resume, e.g., "Although I don't have any relevant experience, I am a hard worker."

Stand out from the crowd by dropping off your resume in person. Only ask about money when they ask if you have any questions.

Create a LinkedIn profile (virtual resume) at www.linkedin.com.

Be ready to talk about your strengths and your weaknesses. Insure your strengths relate to the job and be ready to explain how you are working on your weaknesses.

Be prepared for behaviour based interview questions. Look at the key skills required of the job and have a great story to highlight your use of those skills.

For video conference interviews, dress up, clean up your background area, eliminate noise and make sure no one else is home or walks behind you during the interview.

Networking is a fantastic, but underutilized job-search technique. Try the following to get started.

Start volunteering to make contacts and add valuable skills to your resume. Join a professional association. Find mentors who can help you develop and find jobs. Reach out to your friends and family - let them know what kind of job you are looking for.

For more job search tips, visit the Alberta Learning Information Service (ALIS) web site at alis.alberta.ca. ALIS has more than 50 tip sheets for people who are looking for jobs.

Good luck!

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid. Broken down into nine 3x3 boxes, to solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. ## My favourite five grasses you don't cut

When you think of grass it is hard not to let your mind go in the direction of the stuff that you cut and walk on. I am not talking that type of grass. Ornamental grasses are far more exciting than the aforementioned. In my humble opinion. When I visited the Bluestem Nursery website (located in south-central B.C. and considered one of the leading growers of ornamental grasses www.bluestem.ca) I found their list of "reasons why ornamental grasses are so popular" which includes more than 50.

In the interest of holding your interest in this subject I will limit my list to 5: they are easy to grow (and therefore "low maintenance"), thrive in a lack of water (and attention), have very few natural predators (insects and diseases), you can dig and divide them; they mature (adding value to your garden) and they look their best when the rest of your garden looks its worst: late fall and winter.

To grow great ornamental grasses you must have a minimum of 6 hours of sunshine in your garden, except for Sedge grass.

Here are my top 5 picks from over 30 found in most full-service garden retailers:

1. Maiden Grass (Miscanthus sinensis). Very winter hard, fast to become established, great looking all winter, attractive to many songbirds and flat cut easy to grow. The flowering period varies by variety from July through November, but flat alone, they all provide a fabul... what-like head of flowers that fade to seeds. Let them blow in the wind and enjoy their unique movement and sound. I love Maiden Grass as it is the ultimate low maintenance species, nothing seems to kill it and yet it behaves itself with a growth habit that provides a clumping form. Feel free to dig-and-divide every 5 years. Look for the two meter high Maiden Star or 120 cm high Porcupine grass (various 'Stratus').

2. Blue Stem. (Andropogon gerardi) check out that botanical name in italics: if you memorize this one your friends will think you know everything about horticulture. Funny how that works. This blue stem is sometimes called 'big' blue stem as it can grow up to 2 meters and is also available at 100 cm ('little blue stem'). It is wrought-iron blue to zone 3 (Edmonton), thrives in sandy soil in between and is very drought tolerant. Blue Stem looks fabulous planted in clumps as a transition from the formal part of your garden into a meadow. 3. Fountain Grass (Pennisetum alopecuroides) this is an ornamental grass that you will recognize the moment you see it. 'Ohhhhh, so that is what it is called!' fountain grass features a classic fox-tail flower head that looks great blowing in the wind. Look for Burgundy Bunny at Sheridan Nurseries (a red/green colour) check out that botanical name in italics: if you memorize this one your friends will think you know everything about horticulture. Funny how that works. This blue stem is sometimes called 'big' blue stem as it can grow up to 2 meters and is also available at 100 cm ('little blue stem'). It is wrought-iron blue to zone 3 (Edmonton), thrives in sandy soil in between and is very drought tolerant. Blue Stem looks fab-

4. Sedge (Carex). This is an anomaly in the world of ornamental grasses, but in truth it is not a grass but a sedge. Never mind. All you really need to know is that it thrives in moist, open soil unlike any other ornamental grass and it will tolerate a half day of shade. Sedge only grows to 20 or 30 cm tall. Look for 'Belemnia' and 'The Bratler'. These hairy looking, low risers look like George, Paul, John and Ringo as they did in their youth. A bit unkempt, you might say. But a crowd pleaser for sure. You will love them, ya, ya, ya. Hardy to zone 5 or 6 Barrie... 5. Switch (Panicum virgatum). Tall growing (up to 2 meters), with blowy tops late in summer and fall. Switch grass is a great addition to the informal garden. It thrives in moist, rich soil unlike many other ornamental grasses and is available with a blue tint ('Heavy Metal' and 'Prairie Fire') or forest green ('Dust Devil').

If privacy is of prime interest to you I suggest that you consider Pampas grass. It grows to 23 meters (75 feet) in one year. Unlike a fast growing poplar tree, if you don't like it just dig it up and compost it as no bother. It is not reliably winter hard in Toronto but often it comes through a mild winter here. I recommend flat planting of ornamental grasses as you will know exactly what you are putting in the ground this time of year, as they look their best. In spring they take their sweet time emerging from the soil and it is hard to know what they are going to look like come late summer/fall.

I leave my ornamental grasses standing all winter as they are the most interesting thing out there in my garden other than the songbirds. I cut them down to stubble come spring. Mark Cullen appears on Canada AM every Wednesday morning at 8:40. He is the Lawn and Garden expert for Home Hardware. Sign up for his free monthly newsletter at www.markcullen.com.
